WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 1863.

IMPERIAL GOVERNMENTS

The revolutionary organ of this city, directed by Sub Secretary Varela, publishes, in yesterday's impression, a very intemperate and indecent attack on the Government of Bando Oriental, and the respectable diplomatist who so ably represents President Lerro in this capital. The only apparent end of such vituperation is to stir up ill-feeling between these republics, and, in so odious a mission, we regret to say our colleague has ever been an effective apostle. The 'Tribune' may claim the merit of having caused two wars with the Confederation, in which we only waged, by alliance, from utter destruction. The same paper has generated feuds, dissensions, and controversies between Oriental Uruguayan, foreign and Native, Citizen and Provincial, till its very name has become emblematic of discord.

We will not invoke the Gospel precept of 'love and good will,' but our colleague does not understand the words; neither will we throw a veil of gentle oblivion over the diabolical massacre of Cuttelas, for this would be false philanthropy; nor yet pretend to be the champion of her, or Lemas, for we care little about the political parties. The 'Tribune' must rate as neutrals on a matter in dispute between a legal Government and a gang of insubordinate foreign interests not upheld by the former and jeopardised by the latter.

The thesis is, that President Lerro's Government is the best that has yet ruled the Oriental Republic; our proofs are three: 1st. The statistical tables show a splendid development of the country, hitherto unparalleled. 2nd. The foreign residents who are uninfluenced by party feeling, ratify our decision. 3rd. The exertions made by Government to establish a numerical right to reject this Government. Recently, Berro's chair is erected on the bones of those who rejected Don Quinteros. Now Mr. Diaz and party were misguided, erring and lawless invaders, and our sympathy is for their foes, not their principles; but if President Berro had nothing whatever to do with the principles or accomplices of the tragedy, and every successive Government must be covered, if Berro's is not decorated with his magisterial baton to succeeding Presidents.

But I exclaim Mr. Varela, are such premonitions as Lucas Moreno, Otin, &c., employed by this "model ruler." It human nature had not some imperfections, M. Berro might have a perfect Apotheosis already, but as we have often to see means very repugnant, even in the performance of duty. But because the end is sacred, it cannot be believed the "wrong" man in the right place is to openly in league with the Oriental conspirators, as has been done with sundry official preconditions, to compromise the plausible neutrality of Government, yet he is even bogged to confirm it; nevertheless we cannot charge President Berro's with being an actual Government.

As to the high drawn similes of Poland &c. we are tired of such nauseous stuff; Flores is not Kosciusko, nor is Berro the Russian autocrat. Our colleague treats us to rambling periods, about "the apostle of freedom" in terms Lucas Lemos. We have an equal abhorrence of tyrants and filibusters, and much as we condemn the restrictions of the Press in Buenos Ayres or Montevideo, we should rather seek straight, than accept a pretended liberty on the point of Constantinople, or Brazilian basis leaves, for revolution on whatever plea is a curse to any country, but it is the ruin of the very republic.

We are of General Mitre's opinion "the present is the best Government Banda Oriental has had for a long time" although M. Varela tells us we insult morality.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

Our table is crowded with communications from all quarters—the Glee Club, sheep farmers, the Library and Clerks' Provident Association, extracts from all parts of the republic, Anglo Portenho on the New Law of Citizenship, subscribers in the Banda Oriental about Flores, ditto in East Rios about Urquiza, ditto in town about Cazon—such a heap of letters! As the last shall be first, we begin with our ell friend in the Plaza. Business is very dull, and owing to the unpleasant hints going on about the fines, Inspectorship has published a list of fines for the month, which are shockingly heavy. We verily believe their object is more anxious to collect the coppers than the fines, after all, is to set apart the fines collected in the fourteen provinces. In a few years the whole currency of the country will be absorbed. The state of the Plaza after the least shower of rain is something like the Policia on a busy day—there is no getting through it. The mud in the Plaza on Monday last was perfectly incredible. We hope the Chief will have a few cart loads of sand thrown on it, or, if not, rent it, in wet weather, to some chanchero who will turn the place to advantage. A friend who was in the Chief's office the other day saw two large knives and a fork, left by some careless waiter. Some darkHead-office is to completely shut to the public. Nobody knows what is going on there. Talk of Islama corpus—the Habeas Corpus Act is dead. We see that only foreigners who have a library, and should be sorry to see it shut up for the want of sub-editors. We hope the Government will not be induced to think that parties living in the camp may become subscribers; our agents in the different country towns would receive and remit the cash, but carriage and risk of gross negligence no fines should be exacted. Those fines we hear brighten a great many away altogether from the institution.

Concerning city news, the great topic is about the Libertad, which was detained in Montevideo until nine o'clock, when the Police arrested twenty of her passengers were put on board the hulks; others, that owing to the rain and storm the passengers remained on board. The Libertad only arrived here yesterday with only four passengers, and the luggage of nearly 200. It is said that the Police Authorities discovered another conspiracy, but now true this is we cannot say.

The Buenos Ayres Rifle Club de Arco is now in working order. This is a good sign. We like to see those country mills well established. It also is that we no longer have to import flour.

Both Houses of Congress sit daily now from three minutes, then the Deputies' The time for closing the doors of the Chamber of Deputies, and there is an immunity of business to some yet.

Francisco Seade has sent in a claim for 20 ounces which he lost to Arcalle. We don't see how any one ought to be paid it is now a by-gone day, and as there is not the credit of Buenos Ayres to refuse paying so small, yet just, a claim.

The Oriental Uruguayans were busy with Dr. Quintana's project for educating the son of Dr. Acevedo at the minor's expense; also a project respecting the "Confederation decree." A long and rather warm debate took place as to the wording of the statute. Nothing was published officially on the subject of the capital or municipal lands of the city, but it amounted to nothing, and it was generally voted a bore.

Yesterday the weather was delightful, and more fine summer than winter.

HURRAH FOR COTTON!

We leave it to the Tribune people to say what politics the present Governor of Corrientes belongs to, whether Federal or Unitario, Mosquorquero or Chupandino, we care not what his political colour may be, but we insist that after the President he is the first man in the republic. While other patriotic Argentines are occupied with the Flores invasion, or the Provincial right of declaring a state of siege, the true patriot, this indefatigable friend of industry, the Governor of Corrientes has been quietly gathering up all the cotton seed he could lay hold of, and distributing it amongst the estancieros and country people of his province; not however satisfied with this, but determined to leave no stone unturned for the furtherance of his object, he has had the following law introduced in the Corrientes Legislature, which we have no doubt will be passed unanimously.

Art. 1. Every inhabitant of this province who shall plant cotton upon Government land shall become owner to fee and in perpetuity of such land, including also the land necessary for house, corrals, &c., necessary for the cotton planter.

Art. 2. In order to be entitled to the privileges contained in the preceding article, it shall be necessary for the planter to preserve and cultivate the plantation in good order for three years.

Art. 3. Every private estancia, chacra or establishment dedicated exclusively to cotton planting, shall be free from all impost, tax or duty, now established or hereafter to be created for the term of three years from the date of this law.

Art. 4. The Executive, after the above articles, shall send the immediate referred to it in still law.

Art. 5. Let it be published, &c.
Sala of Sessions, Aug. 13, 1863.

THE LIBRARY & GLEE CLUB.

To the Editors of the 'Standard.'

Gentlemen—The Glee Club appears determined to "keep itself even over active, where values—tired, I suppose, to "wasting its sweetness upon the desert air." First, we have the majestic tone of "A Member" who assures Buenos aires if speaking for the whole body, using the plural pronoun throughout. Next comes the discordant tones of "Subscriber" seconding "A Member's" call for a signature. We only want a leader, either of your own or the club, to put the pitch fork to the ribs of the latter, and then the public will be anxious to shun. And all this for what? Because some gentlemen, who takes an interest in the welfare of the British Library, advertised "selfish and ungenerous" that refused to fulfil what many believed they had promised, from various good reasons for declining I need hardly dwell upon, as the very same reasons should have operated in the case of the Glee Club, were found sufficient weight. The routine duties of the Hospital and Library is would be inviolable to discuss. I have no support than they have yet received; but of the two, I profess to think that the claims of the latter institution upon a generous community can be rendered to it by any musical attractions of the Glee Club, was of the two the stronger, especially as, we are told, the majority of the vocalists are also members of the Library.

I can scarcely believe the public curiosity to intrude upon "private entertainment" so great as we are led to believe (in fact, I think "society" should take some steps to resent this intrusion) but if it does exist, I On the contrary, if I remain her aright, they were not even advertised of in connection with the financial arrangements, and I do not think until some members volunteered their services, and promi-ed their influence towards obtaining the support of the public, that it took place. I think therefore all their would-be entreaties to be bolt in peace, somewhat gratuitous. I do not, however, object to the objects on the public, let us be sparen any more parade to justify them. I think their principles and practice slightly at variance, but I for one willingly say "equiescat in pace."

THE MERCEDES TRAGEDIES.

Villa de Lujan, Aug. 29, 1863.

To the Editors of the Standard.

Gentlemen—It is reported about here that the ruffian who murdered poor Kirby and poen is to escape with a temporary banishment from Buenos Ayres. Such a sentence would be a mockery, some persons have enough to offer him their sympathy, we as gentlemen, should not omit forwarding a petition to the Governor in order that a public example be made of this monster.

How many other innocent victims have to fall before the end of this daring assassin, it is not for me to say, but in all probability the murder of Kirby was not the first time he had committed such a deed, for the cruelties of the fiend in human shape the better. Not the slightest doubt as regards his guilt.

Why is it that Gallardo is going about this particular there is not the least fear of his being arrested, as the nine days' wonder is over past, and the public require something fresh. After committing the crime, the assassin remained about his own place for three days, the coroners got full particulars of the affair at once, and was actually requested by a respectable Irish gentleman to arrest the murderer but in his negligence could not think of doing any such thing without orders from his superior the Alcalde.

Gallardo has now accumulated a sufficiency of time to clear out, either No. 2 arrives with a dozen mounted policemen (A division), who surrounded the premises house during the night, calling on the murderer at intervals to come out, or they would to under the necessity of going in for him. Morning dawned and it was only then they ascertained that the delinquent had escaped.

SPANISH AFFAIRS.

The latest news from Spain is dated the 25th ult. and is as follows:

The rebel army encamped yesterday on the Costa de Maures, sending out scouts in all directions. They continued an unmolested Accencio, with the view of surprising our troops of horses which usually graze there also. But their plan was completely frustrated, through the vigilance of our flying piquets.

Commissary Rousseau-Decelle arrived at Gibraltar, on the 25th, near the right hand of the Rio Negro; after a hot pursuit, he succeeded in killing 4, and taking 3 prisoners.

The 'Imparcial' states that a body of 300 rebels under Boiles and Aguilar conveyed Fuentes de Ebro to the Rio Negro in order to embark him for Buenos Ayres, as he was badly wounded. Lagunas's division was about to march out of Mequinenza, on a reconnaissance of the neighbouring district. General Medina's vanguard crossed the Rio Negro at Fuentes de Ebro, on the 26th, in pursuit of Boiles, but the latter had "clear'd out."

MONTEVIDEO.

At the review of the 25th ult. 1600 National troops defiled before the Provisional Ministers. Dr. Vera, the readers of the Gaceta, ordered a Te Deum at the church of San José in celebration of the happy end of the ecclesiastical difficulty. Government has granted a patent for curing beef, for eight years, to the firm of Gisbert and Co. The Italian Opera Company is performing. The Opera Co. gave Semiramide on Sunday evening, at Solis the Bolivs also performed La Belle Helene, and the former very off the palm of popularity. Gen. Lamas left the capital on Saturday evening, on board the 18th del Salto, to station to the north of that same. A deserter from Flores joined Medina's division on the 29th. The Rev. Dr. Fisk Jansen on Sunday morning, having on board Mr Rumbell engineer of the Great Southern railway. Dr. Vera has assumed the Secretaryship of Finances (removed), in the post of Consul-general at Paris. The 'Reforma' states that the Police is in Montevideo, and Varela in Rio, with 7 stationary forces; and that your troops shoot all the prisoners.

THE GOLDSMITH STATUE.

The statue of Oliver Goldsmith, which had been erected on Friday, on Trinity College railings, was unveiled on Saturday. The pedestal is the model of one on which it is proposed to place the statue, as stated in the Dublin Mail. It is not yet, for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not its size and form would suit the statue. The result of the experiment must, however, have been unfavourable to it, as the statue, which is of itself really a beautiful work of art, appeared decidedly weak upon it. The statue, which is by the Irish sculptor J. H Foley, and which will certainly remain a striking testimony of Irish genius in the fine arts, represents the poet in an attitude of inspiration, with a note book in the left hand raised to the head, with his breast, and the right hand, which hangs down by his side, holding a pencil. The attitude is quite suggestive, and no one looking at it can doubt that it represents the idea of the sculptor—merely, to represent the poet just in the act of composition—how he is giving a form and shaping on paper those flowers of which have delighted so many, not alone of his own countrymen, but of all who have read and appreciate the beauties of English literature. The fine intellectual, and slightly worn looking face is beautifully represented, and the attitude and the right hand over his mouth forming a striking contrast to the equal, unpoetic-looking statue of Lowney Moore, which is also seen from looking to it, and which, in common respect to the poet "par excellence" of Ireland, ought to be removed, and a statue of Goldsmith substituted in its stead, now when a really fine work of art, placed in close proximity to it, which in point of the statute still remains glaring. The statue of Goldsmith represents him in the dress of the time at which he lived; and, without detracting in any degree from the correctiveness of the posture, it at the same time shows in a striking manner the utter impossibility of not only Goldsmith, but of a large number of men of genius—namely, a carelessness and slovenliness in their dress. Goldsmith included hungs down in the most negligent fashion, and the coat fits quite loosely behind, being, in fact, what a modern would call very badly made one, which is quite in accordance with Goldsmith's well-known carelessness with regard to dress; but the protection to the knee-breeches, which this rather adds to the gracefulness of the figure than otherwise. The statue, altogether, is indeed a splendid piece of art, and such has been the general opinion among all who saw it on Saturday. Among the many thousands that passed and repassed it, there was but one opinion—namely, of unqualified approval, and the comparisons drawn between it and the statue of Lowney Moore certainly anything but favourable to the latter. The casting was by the well-known Mr Elkington, who has just been put in the work in a style that could not be exceeded. The statue will certainly form a great addition to the Fine Art treasures of Dublin, and the pedestal, we might say, does not seem subject to it, and some alteration in its form would be a very great improvement.

THE PORTO-RICO PLOT.

There has been for some time in Ponce, though he has now left, Count Guirepp Mycielski, a Pole, on a mission to the Pope. The object of his mission was to obtain from His Holiness an encyclical letter in favour of Polish nationality, and in part he has succeeded in his difficult mission. His Holiness has so far yielded as to address an encyclical letter to the Emperor Alexander condemning the barbarous acts which are perpetrated by the Russians, especially against the Clergy, and holds him personally responsible for the blood which is shed. The Count having entered him to give publicity to this letter, the Pope replied that he could not do this, but authorised the Count to make it known to all concerned on his return to Poland. This time, on the 30th, in pursuit of Boiles, but the latter had "clear'd out."

MADAGASCAR.

Paris July 7.

The official report of the French Consul at Tamatave, dated 15th May, has been published to day. The report explains that the cause of the political revolution in Madagascar was the rivalry between the nobles and the commercial men with the view of the accession of King Radama took power and monopolised all favours, and who have suggested to the King measures disapproved of by the people. They were accused of injustice, of being open to corruption, and great immorality. Rumour of the King's recall to Ava, has however refused, and the preparations for the conflict are then begun. The European Consul remained in full fellow-countrymen, and the English Consul wished the Methodist missionaries to take a similar course, but they refused to participate in intrigue. The King having again refused to revoke his law, the people, slaves, and soldiers assembled in the public places to search for the chiefs who had been instrumental in bringing to the King's court who had been accused by the conspirators. Eleven were killed by the assembled mob, and after going on, negotiations were entered into with the King, who acknowledged for the unfortunate men refused to do so, who he promised should be exiled for life. This was refused by the conspirators, who demanded that the guilty should undergo perpetual imprisonment with hard labour. The King would not at first comply with the demand, but after much parley ended by accepting it. The following day the King was assassinated; and the Council proclaimed Queen Rohodo announcing that the King, disconsolate at the loss of his friends, and unable to live alone. The Queen accepted the constitution, which stipulates among other things that she shall not speak strong liquors, and that she shall not live one month belonging to the Council. It also abolishes the flogging and mutilation punishments. The Queen's coronation followed it. It is feared that no fast soon orders to the governors on the coast to protect the whites.

THE CAUCASUS

Paris, July 7

The Paris papers publish the following telegram, dated Constantinople, July 7. "Intelligence received here from Tiflis to the 21st ult. states that the Imeretian war is in full vigour and that the Russians have defeated the Loughian province. Prince Chulukoli, with 200 soldiers, had been massacred near the citadel of Takstet. The road to Tiflis is said to be completely blocked up. What renders this movement serious is that the Tartars, who until now have remained neutral in Abasia, take part in the in-urrection. The whole of the country between Tiflis and Mombia is threatened by the insurgents."

CHINA AND JAPAN

Marseilles, July 8

News has been received here from Japan, stating that the British Government concluded a treaty which gave reason to hope that it would give the satisfaction which the English Admiral had been charged to obtain from it. News has also been received from China to the 20th May, respecting which a complete understanding existed between the Chinese Government and the representatives of England and France. The insurgents had not recommenced hostilities, and tranquillity prevailed in Cochin China.

THE FRENCH LADIES.—A curious account of a new, the remains of which have lately been discovered, imbedded in the sand at the mouth of the Garonne. A chorpla supposed to be of the date of the decadence of the Roman Empire, has already been laid bare, and numerous capitals and ecclesiastical ornaments have been brought to light. The district, like our Peterborough, or Perran Arabulo, on the Cornish coast, is described by one who has accumulated, in some localities, many layers

The special envoy of the Montevidean Government to Paraguay, who arrived, per Liberted, this morning, and would not even come on shore for half an hour, caused exhilarating rumours to circulate on the Bolsa to day. It was generally supposed that the Oriental envoy was about to seek Paraguayan assistance or intervention in the Flores' affair, but we are led to believe that such is not the case—the intervention of the Montevidean Governm.ot was sent on a sad mournful mission of peace, to fetch the remains of the lamented Dr. Acevedo to Montevideo for interment.
